Whispering in circles, all ears, and giggling, the school children of the nearby town, young ladies and boys, see the appearance of the two men in a moment's time.

"It must be the new school principal and his secretary."

"What a handsome man!"

She is a beautiful girl, and she is a very good student. She is a very good student. She is a very good student.

"What a handsome man!"

"I wonder if this machine will help us find a way to stop the disease from spreading."

It's not possible until we have a better idea of how the disease spreads."

"Maybe we could study the way the disease spreads in a controlled environment. We could use a small amount of the disease in a safe place and see if it spreads to other people."

They're doing better in the lab. We should try to get the disease under control in the real world. We should try to control the disease.

"We should try to control the disease in the real world."

"We should try to control the disease in the real world. We should try to control the disease in the real world. We should try to control the disease in the real world."

Control the disease and life would be so much better. Control the disease.
